

Physical development and functional state of the cardiovascular system in adolescents
Prevention of injuries in children during physical education classes.
Dynamics of the morpho-functional profile of children of primary school age
Technologies for correcting the posture of students in physical education classes
Development of endurance of senior schoolchildren on the basis of individual and typological features
Comparative characteristics of physical fitness of elementary school students with different levels of motor activity
Modern aspects of the use of means of active tourism in sports and recreational activities of schoolchildren
National-patriotic education in extracurricular physical education.
Organizational and pedagogical conditions for the formation of legal awareness of students of the Faculty of Physical Education
Innovations in involving students of the special medical group in physical activity
Peculiarities of using the modular system in physical education lessons
Development of functional reserves of the body of children of primary school age
Pedagogical conditions for the formation of professional stability of future teachers of physical culture